

Will I be insured in an Automated Vehicle?

Existing national motor accident injury insurance schemes may not all cover for injuries and deaths caused by a future conditional, high or fully automated vehicle when it is controlled by an Automated Driving System (ADS).

Humans 'driving', 'in control', or 'in charge' will be covered by their existing motor accident insurance schemes.

Schemes may be expanded to provide cover when ADS engaged, with liability falling on the manufacturer/operator/other entity.

Insurers will require access to crash data to determine liability.

*The National Transport Commission is working with States and Territories to develop nationally consistent legislative policy recommendations.
